Authors regret that there was one inadvertently typo in the title that resulted in technical terminology error. Authors do confirm that we have used correct technical terminology with reference to our experimental details and results throughout the text of our manuscript. The methods and materials, experimental details, and results and discussion part in the original article is correct and will remain the same. The typo is only in the title and should be corrected in this corrigendum.

The corrected title is as “Highly Dispersed Palladium Nanoparticles Decorated on Nitrogen Doped Graphene for Enhanced Electrochemical Water Splitting”.

The authors would like to apologise for any inconvenience caused.
